1. The Center For Fine And Applied Arts Terra / International Terracotta Sculpture Symposium Terra - about the institution / event

The Center for Fine and Applied Arts (hereinafter: Terra Center), based in Kikinda (Serbia), is a cultural institution that consists of three units: Terra Gallery, Terra Studio and Terra Museum, which, with their programming activities, strive to contribute to the development, promotion, diffusion and decentralization of cultural content.

Symposium Terra is certainly the most important cultural event in the organization of the institution - the core of the institution's system and its main engine. It was founded in 1982 based on the idea of academic sculptor Mr. Slobodan Kojić, and in its 42 years of existence, it established itself as a unique sculpture colony in the world, dedicated to contemporary large-format terracotta sculpture. The result of the work of this cultural manifestation of national, but also wider, world importance, is most visible in Tera's sculpture collection, which today numbers over 1200 artworks and as such is the most numerous in the world in the domain of contemporary art.

Sculptures from the collection of the Terra Symposium have also been exhibited at numerous exhibitions in many cities in Serbia and abroad, such as Belgrade, Novi Sad, Pančevo, Subotica, Sarajevo, Banja Luka, Ljubljana, Ribnica, Karlovac, Bar, Venice, Paris, Timișoara, Reșița, Kecskemét, Kiskunfélegyház, Kapolcs, etc.

The honor to represent Yugoslav fine arts at the 48th Venice Biennale, that was held in 1999, was, among others, given to sculptors who were part of the International Terracotta Sculpture Symposium Terra. On that occasion, the city of Venice was gifted with five sculptures exhibited in Arsenali di Venezia, created at the Symposium as part of the Terra collection.

In addition to the Symposium Terra, the institution organizes individual and group exhibitions in the Terra Gallery and the Terra Museum salon, professional curatorial guidance within the permanent exhibition of the Terra Museum, as well as other multimedia-educational activities such as the multimedial and interdisciplinary festival, art workshops, panel discussions, debates and other related activities.

With the opening of the Tera Museum in 2017, the institution expanded its activities from organizational-exhibition to museological-educational activities, so in addition to contributing to the promotion of contemporary visual creativity, the institution also contributes to the protection of museum and immovable cultural heritage by inheriting a unique collection of sculptures, and objects in which are located business units are protected cultural assets.
